Why Keep a Record?

This Member's Record gives you a personal inventory of your 4-H achievements which reflect your hard work, positive qualities, and personal growth. Keep your record in a Member's Record Cover or in a three ring binder. You will return to this record continuously throughout your 4-H career, updating and adding every year you participate in the program. Documenting your progress helps you track your goals and promote life-long record-keeping skills.

At the conclusion of each year turn in your record to either your club leader or the Brookings County 4-H Office (for independent or special interest club members). It will help your club leader or the reviewing party to identify the accomplishments you have made in 4-H project areas, personal development, and involvement. Additionally, most awards presented at the annual 4-H Recognition Event (including premium awards and member year pins) require a record book be turned in.
